History

Remember 1924 ... Calvin Coolidge was President ... we had no Vice-President ... Kleenex, Wheaties, Corn Flakes, and Popsicles were introduced ... the first Winter Olympics was held in France ... the first six-pack of Coke hit the stores ... Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade began ... and LAMBUTH COLLEGE WAS REORGANIZED!

Until this time, Lambuth College had been known as the Memphis Conference Female Institute, an all-girls' school dedicated to honoring and bettering the educational and religious lives of young women. Following its founding in 1843, the school ran successfully for 76 years. Its doors closed in 1919 to undergo renovation for the institution now known as Lambuth College. After the Memphis Conference chose a different land site, designed a new campus, and allowed both men and women to enroll, Lambuth began its first academic year in the fall of 1924 with a fresh commitment to higher education and personal excellence.

Traditions

The traditions observed by a community give that group of people its identity. All schools have traditions uniquely their own; Lambuth is no exception.

Many of Lambuth's traditions center around the flagpole. To celebrate the beginning of a new academic year, faculty, and students gather at the flagpole for the flag-raising ceremony. At the ending of the academic year, once again they gather for the lowering of the flag to the sound of a trumpeter playing "Taps." Greek organizations gather around the flagpole and shout cheers to show the group's spirit. At lead-out for "Old South," the Kappa Alphas lead their belles to the flagpole, kneel beside them, and sing them the "Rose Song."

The duck pond is also a part of the Lambuth tradition. It serves as a quiet place for couples to go after a date or as a peaceful spot on a spring day. In the past, it was traditional to duck a fraternity brother who had just given his girlfriend a "drop" or "pin."

Another Lambuth tradition is the "Cattle Run," a Greek tradition that takes place on sorority bid day each fall. After getting their bids, new sorority pledges run to their sorority rooms while being taunted by fraternity men lining the sidewalk.

A cherished tradition at Christmas is the Hanging of the Greens, a time when students and faculty gather to decorate the campus in Christmas finery. The Christmas Banquet, to which the entire Lambuth family is invited, and the ritual of the Yule Log climax this tradition. The Madrigal Feaste, a spectacular display of musical talent in a medieval atmosphere, is also a vital part of this Christmas tradition.

The traditions of Lambuth bond new students to old ones. Telling freshmen about life at Lambuth would hardly be complete without describing these traditions.

People

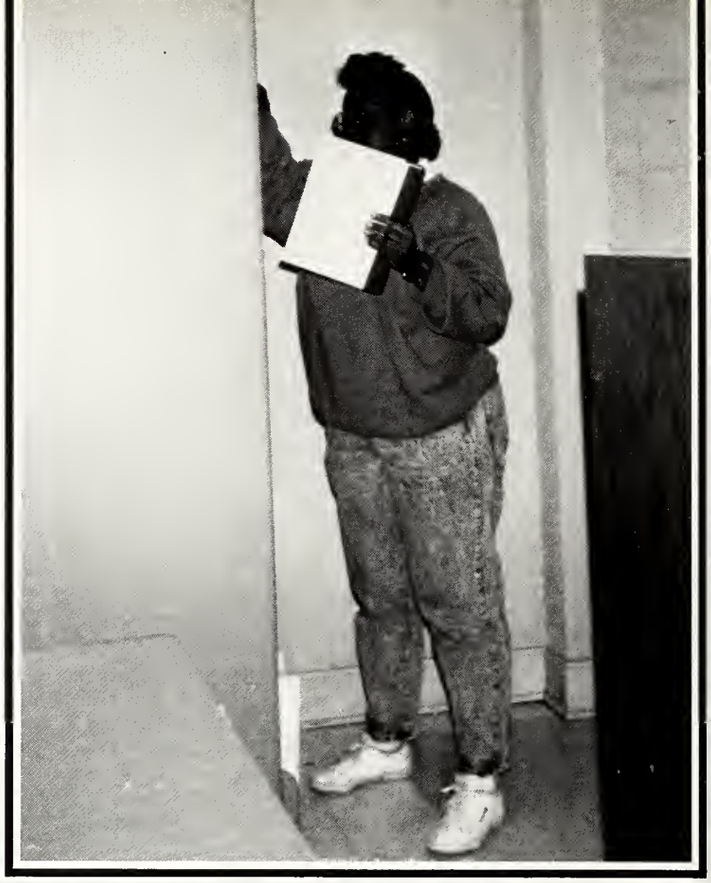
The spirit and life of a college are not found in its buildings or its curriculum, but in its people. Lambuth's student body is hardly a homogenous group; we are all different from one another, and it is this diversity that makes the Lambuth experience truly unique.

Students at Lambuth come from diverse backgrounds. Both native and foreign heritages are represented in the student body. Although Lambuth is a Methodist college, a variety of religious backgrounds adds to the diversity.

Students here range in age from 17 to 68. The reasons these students come to Lambuth are as varied as the people. Some students like the size of the school; others like the beautiful campus; still others prefer the liberal arts program. Many enjoy the relaxed relationships between faculty and students.

Varied interests and activities also add to the diversity of the people at Lambuth. There are Bible studies, intramurals, plays, Greek activities, and varsity sports. Here, a student can find a place, whether it be in arts or athletics.

Despite all of the differences among the students, Lambuth has a relaxed atmosphere. There is a harmonious blending of ideas and lifestyles within the student body.



Academics

Although the lives of some students outside the classroom may not reflect it, there is one element which ties the entire student body together: the pursuit of academic excellence.

If the purpose of a college education is to prepare men and women for life, then it is crucial that they receive an education which teaches them to correlate ideas into a unified whole. The purpose of a liberal arts education is to give each student a working knowledge of several fields of study and to acquaint the student with those areas of study that do not relate directly to that student's life, to the end that the student can be a well-rounded person.

Lambuth College seeks to combine academic study with social and spiritual activities so that the students achieve a balanced view of life. Although the college supports these social events, it never permits students to forget that academic excellence is of utmost consequence to their future lives and that they should never allow the pursuit of knowledge to take second place to anything.

After Hours

Common sense dictates that the last thing students want to do after spending most of the day in a classroom is homework. Luckily, there is a variety of ways for them to avoid doing this chore.

Students with the best intentions often get sidetracked. Spring weather provides for a major sidetrack. Long walks, touch football, or simply hanging out on the quad make great study breaks.

The dorm also holds many distractions. First and foremost is the distraction of the bed. True college students can always convince themselves that there is time for "a quick nap." A second distraction of dorm life is the people. Quick talks with friends often evolve into large group conversations that run into the early morning hours. And always, there are people ready and willing to make the call . . . the call to Domino's.

Even with all these dorm distractions, students often find it necessary to go out for fun. Many find their way to a fraternity house to dance, play games, or simply hang out. Still others journey off campus to the movies, Mr. Donut, Perkins, the Harbor, or the Pub. For those with truly adventurous spirits or for those who feel they can hardly stand one more minute of the college scene a road trip is often in order.

Regardless of the students' interests, there is always something to do after hours.

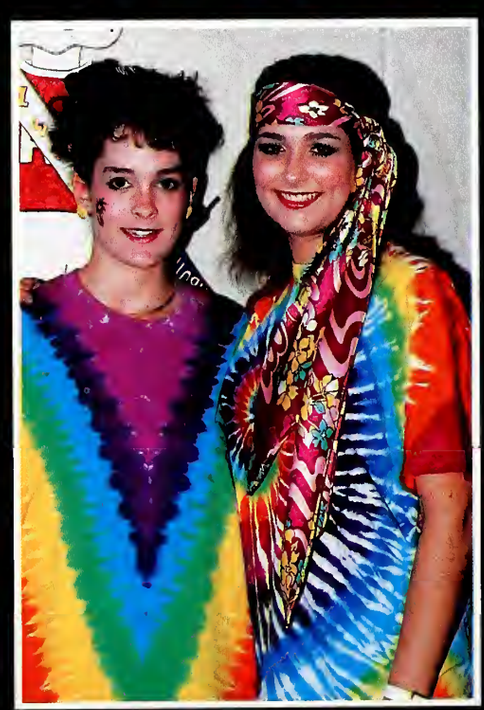
Flashback

It was a decade of change — a time of revolution in the ideas, the fashions, and the music of a generation of young Americans — the 1960's. Now history is spiraling and shadows of the 1960's can again be seen even on the campus of Lambuth College. Although peace, love, and understanding are no longer the foremost ideas in the minds of most college students, at least some of the 1960's spirit is still alive in the fashions and music popular today.

Any given day on Lambuth's campus provides the senses with sights reminiscent of the 1960's. A stroll across campus invariably includes the sight of students clad in fashions with 1960's origin. Tie-dyes abound on Lambuth students. Bandanas hide morning hair and woven bracelets adorn the wrists of even those students who have never heard the Grateful Dead. Cut-offs are a fashion staple and fringe is common, especially on jackets. Woven sandals adorn students' feet and ragged jeans hug their hips. All of these fashions which are seen on the Lambuth campus today were probably seen here twenty years ago.



Far Right: Jamie Boyd and Jennifer Lovelace are evidence that the fashions of the 1960's still thrive on the Lambuth campus. Near Right: A sea of dyes flows from the '60's to the '80's. Leigh Ann Allen and Leanne Johnson sport colorful dyes. Bracelets are worn in bunches by many Lambuth students.

"It was dangerous for large groups of people who looked like we did to get together in those days."

— Arlo Guthrie

Truckin'

"Truckin', I'm going home, oh baby back where I belong."

— The Grateful Dead

Spring break, holidays, long weekends . . . they all have one thing in common — packing and unpacking. No matter where Lambuth students are headed on a road trip, loading their "stuff" is an unpopular necessity. The lucky ones who live in dorm rooms 325-339 of Carney-Johnston get to carry their baggage to the top floor and then trek to the end of the hall because some dorms are equipped with only one accessible door. However, all is not as dismal as it may seem! There are always macho men willing to show off their brute strength to help a girl or even a buddy.

Clockwise From Top Left: Tim Clarke helps Janna Sipes load up and move home. It takes two to handle a refrigerator big enough for Joel Whittenton and Chris Martin. Elizabeth Berry seems thrilled to be heading out for the summer. Late in the packing process, Melissa Bogle has resorted to throwing it all in a paper bag.

Dorm Life

"I just need some place where I can lay my head."

— The Band

Clockwise From Right: This young man is living proof that even Harris Hall is occasionally peaceful enough to permit some study time. Before a big social outing, the dorm is a great place for Missy Sadlak to pick up new dance steps from Lawonder Siner and Lee Tuttle. Kelly Pappas proves that even freshmen have good study habits when they can get some quiet time in the dorm. Amanda Brint lounges in one of the beautifully decorated rooms of Sprague Hall.

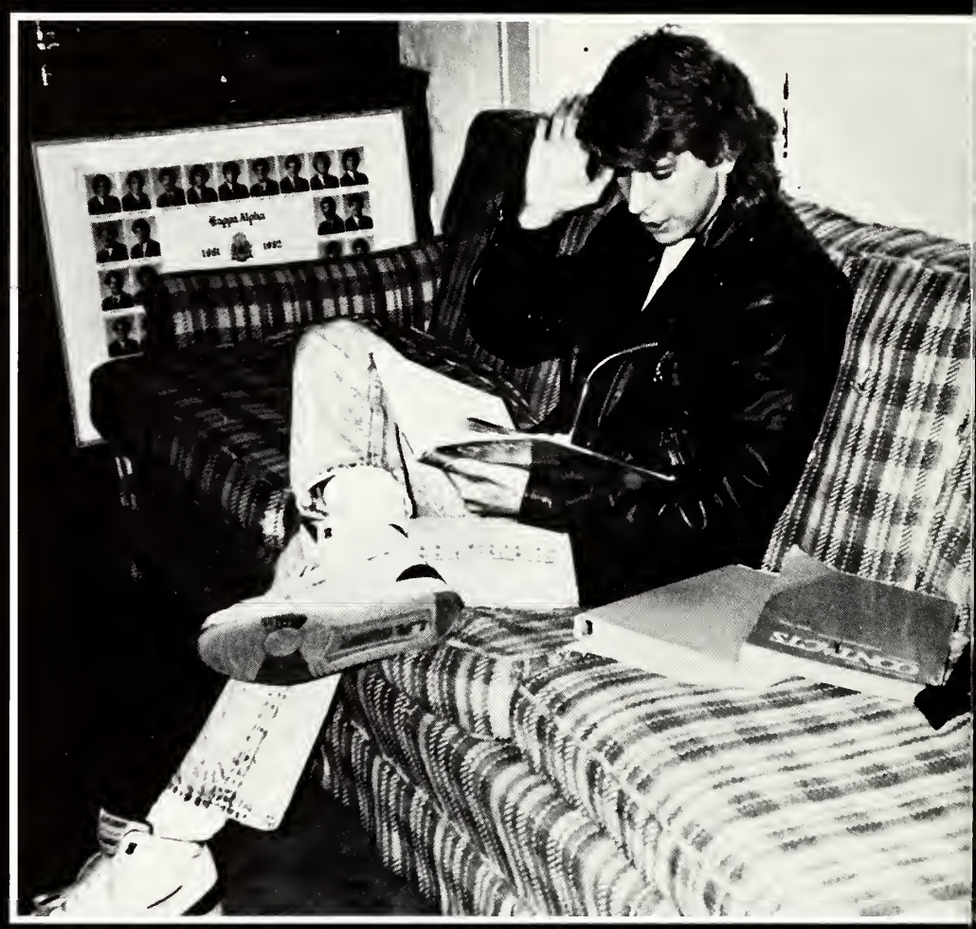
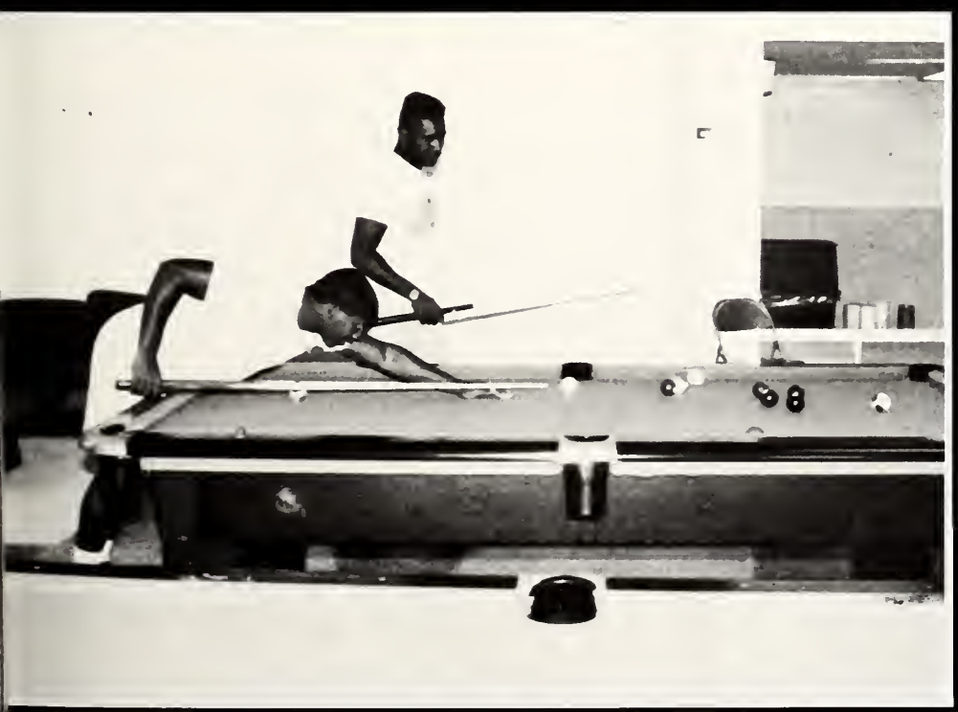
Killing Time

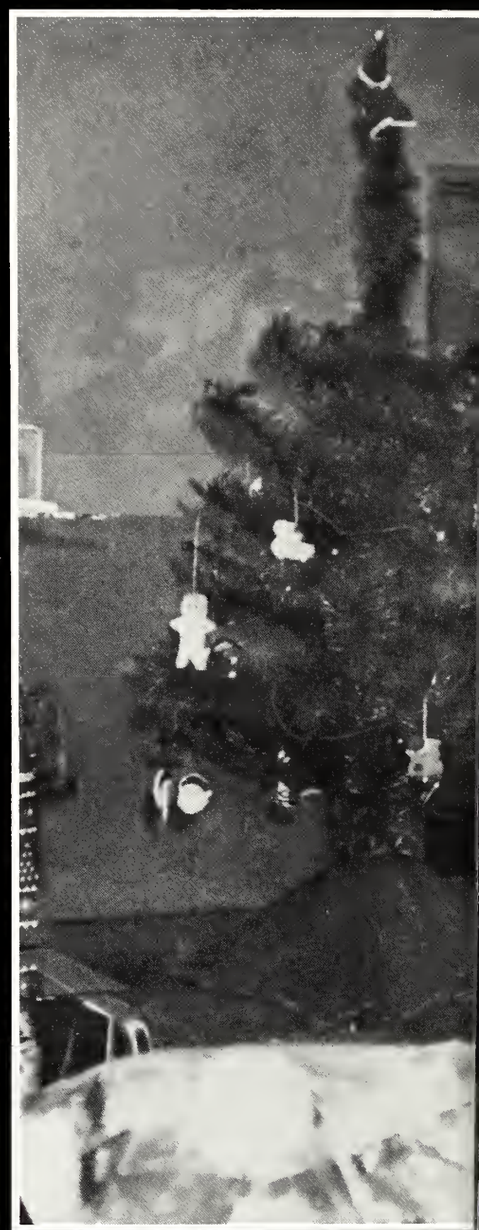
"I really didn't know what time it was so I asked them if I could stay awhile."
— Led Zeppelin

It seems that in every student's life, spare time and its use become very important. A whole day, or even just a spare hour, can sometimes seem like eternal boredom. Many students use their spare time for work and study, but many others opt for a more relaxed approach. On campus, there are lots of spare time activities. In the dorm, students gossip, listen to music, watch the soaps and eat. In nice weather, the lawn in front of Spangler becomes a football field and the entire campus becomes a golf course. Students can also be found scantily clad all over campus soaking up the sun in warmer weather. As the weather turns cold, students' activities go indoors to pool and ping pong. Socializing at the fraternity houses moves from the yard to the inside near the fire. Snowball fights and snowman contests again draw some students outside, but most prefer to stay warm. No matter what the weather, Lambuth's sports teams provide great entertainment and the Student Activities Committee always has something planned. Whether it's a quick game of Pictionary, a banana split or study time, there are many interesting ways that Lambuth students kill time.



Clockwise From Right: Eric Oliver usually spends his spare time perfecting his basketball skills. Studying is a constructive way to kill time and Carter Fulghum does it often. Frances Stone, William Holden, and Hal Goldberg untangle the lights while Garen Throneberry wears the tinsel as all gather after lunch to decorate the Kappa Sig house for Christmas. These guys know that a challenging game of pool in the game room is a relaxing way to spend some time. Leanne Casey's favorite thing to do with a few free minutes is catch up on the comics.

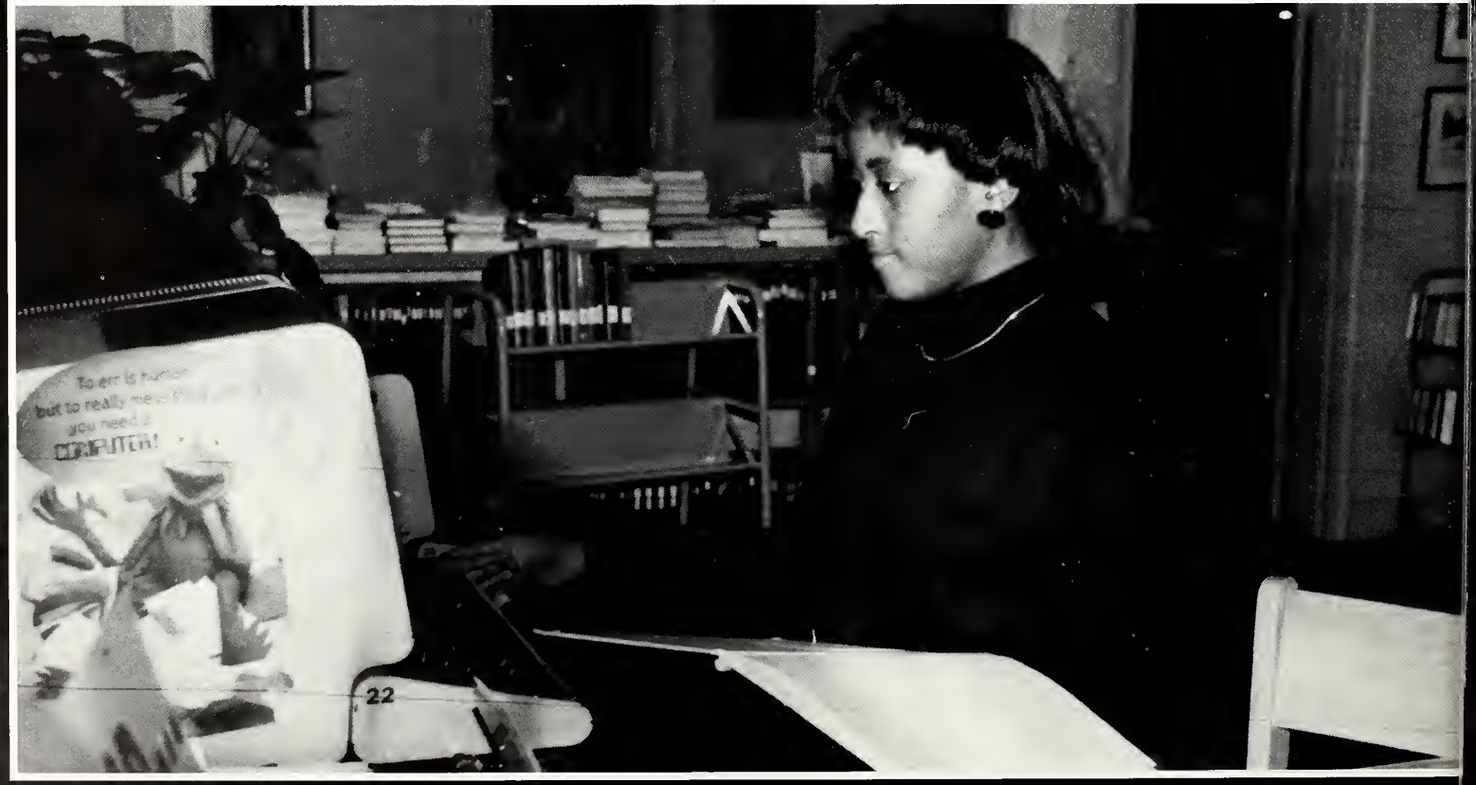




Hard At Work

"We've been taking care of business and working overtime."
— Bachman Turner Overdrive

Clockwise From Right: Hard at work, Joe Eskridge decorates the Christmas tree in the Lambuth bookstore where he works. Several Lambuth students know that there is never a dull moment when one works with children; Christy Pate, Renee Mathis, Lisa Rowland, Becky McClarin, and Stacy Hammons all enjoy the exciting and rewarding work at the Lambuth Memorial Day Care Center. Many students, such as student librarian Marilyn Glenn, take advantage of convenient on-campus jobs.



Our Gang

"I saw a lot of people coming together, sharing and having a great time. If that was out of control, then America needs to lose control at least once a week."
— Carlos Santana

Clockwise From Right: This crazy group enjoys an afternoon of "mudding" in the fields of West Tennessee. Anna Bray finds it hard to believe that Bob Marley and Janis Joplin are sitting next to her. These girls seem to have a great time partying at the Hawaiian Bash. Richard Kennedy leads the girls in a strange version of Duck, Duck, Goose. Chris Tanner and friends are assuming the looks of their alter egos. These Kappa Sigs enjoy a wonderful meal in the cafeteria.

ΚΣ

Classes

"Don't know much about history. Don't know much Biology. Don't know much about science books. Don't know much about the French I took."

— Sam Cooke

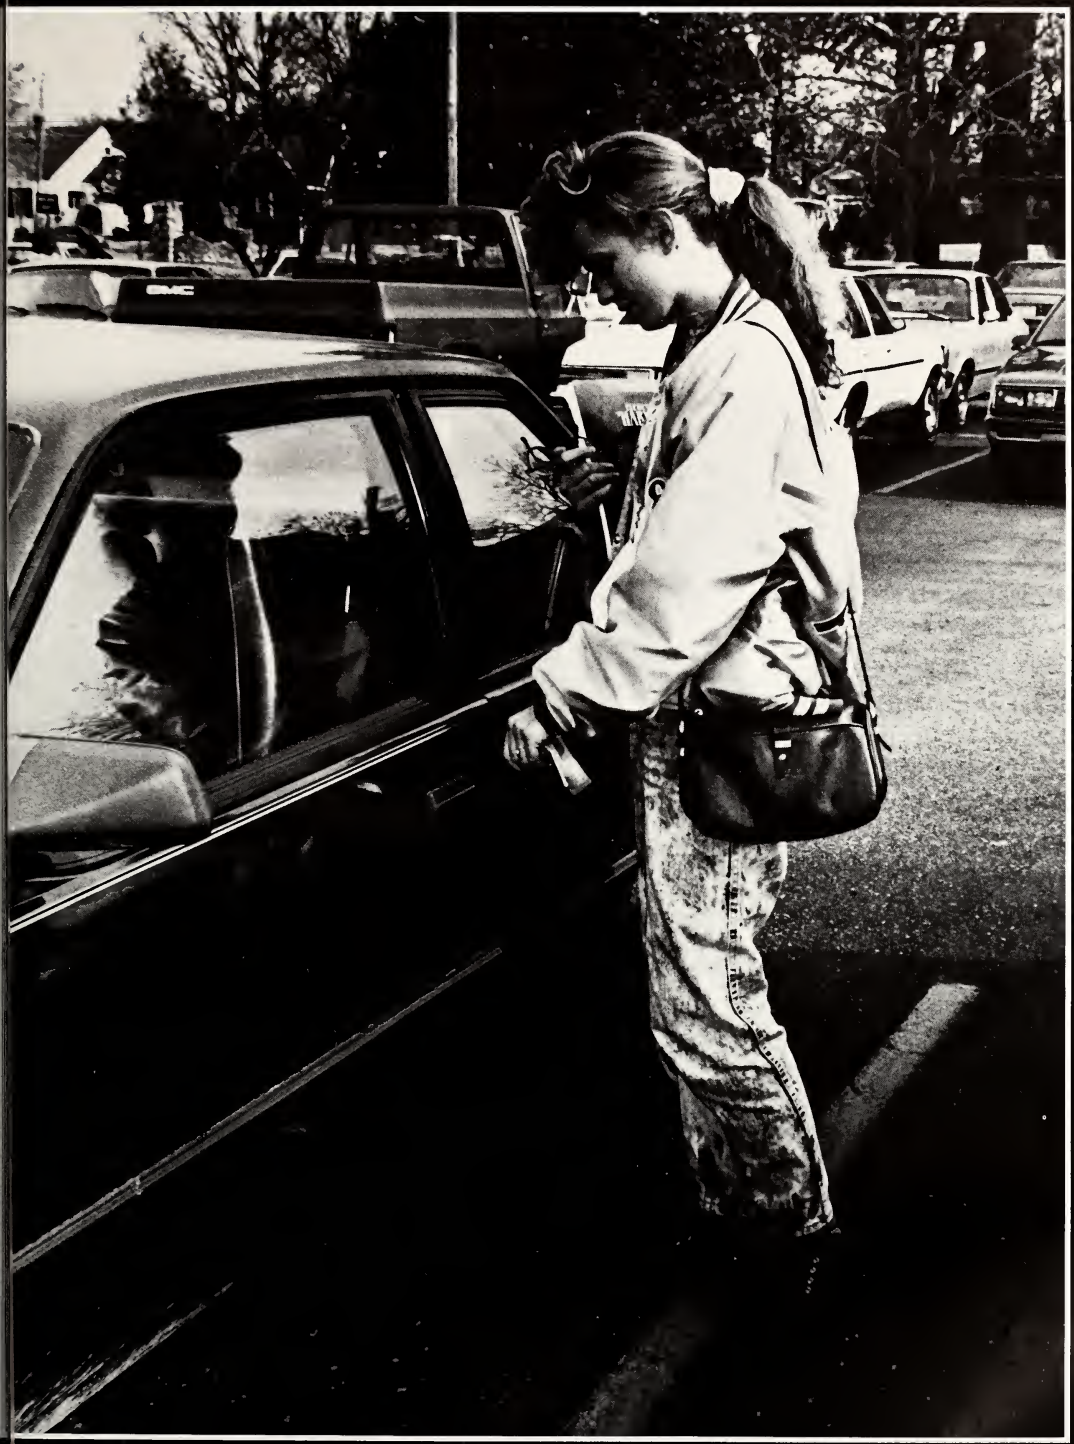
Clockwise From Below: Dewayne Dickerson and Tanja Mills dissect a fetal pig. Mrs. Hudacek looks a bit skeptical about Scott Roberts' paper. Teri Moore is supposed to be working on a lab exercise but thinks blowing bubbles is more fun. Jennifer Stricker nurtures her talent in painting class. Dr. Hazlewood is treated to a birthday celebration by his lambs in World Literature.

Commuter Life

"Baby you can drive my car."
— The Beatles

They come from Jackson, Brownsville, Pinson, Boliver, and other West Tennessee towns. They are the commuters. Forty-three percent of Lambuth's total student population is commuter students. Although nearly half of all Lambuth's students commute, the commuters are an essentially ignored community. Each day, after pumping gas, facing traffic, and braving the elements, these students arrive at Lambuth. Then the real battle begins. Although Lambuth is a school which claims to recruit the non-traditional and the commuter student, inadequate facilities and resources are provided for these students. Parking areas are far from sufficient. Commuters frequently receive tickets for parking in the wrong place. However, it must be considered that they do their best to park in the limited spaces provided. Furthermore, commuters are not always informed of campus issues and activities. Meetings, convocations, and seminars are often missed by commuters who would like to attend but simply are not aware of these happenings. These problems make it more difficult than necessary for commuter students to get the full Lambuth experience.

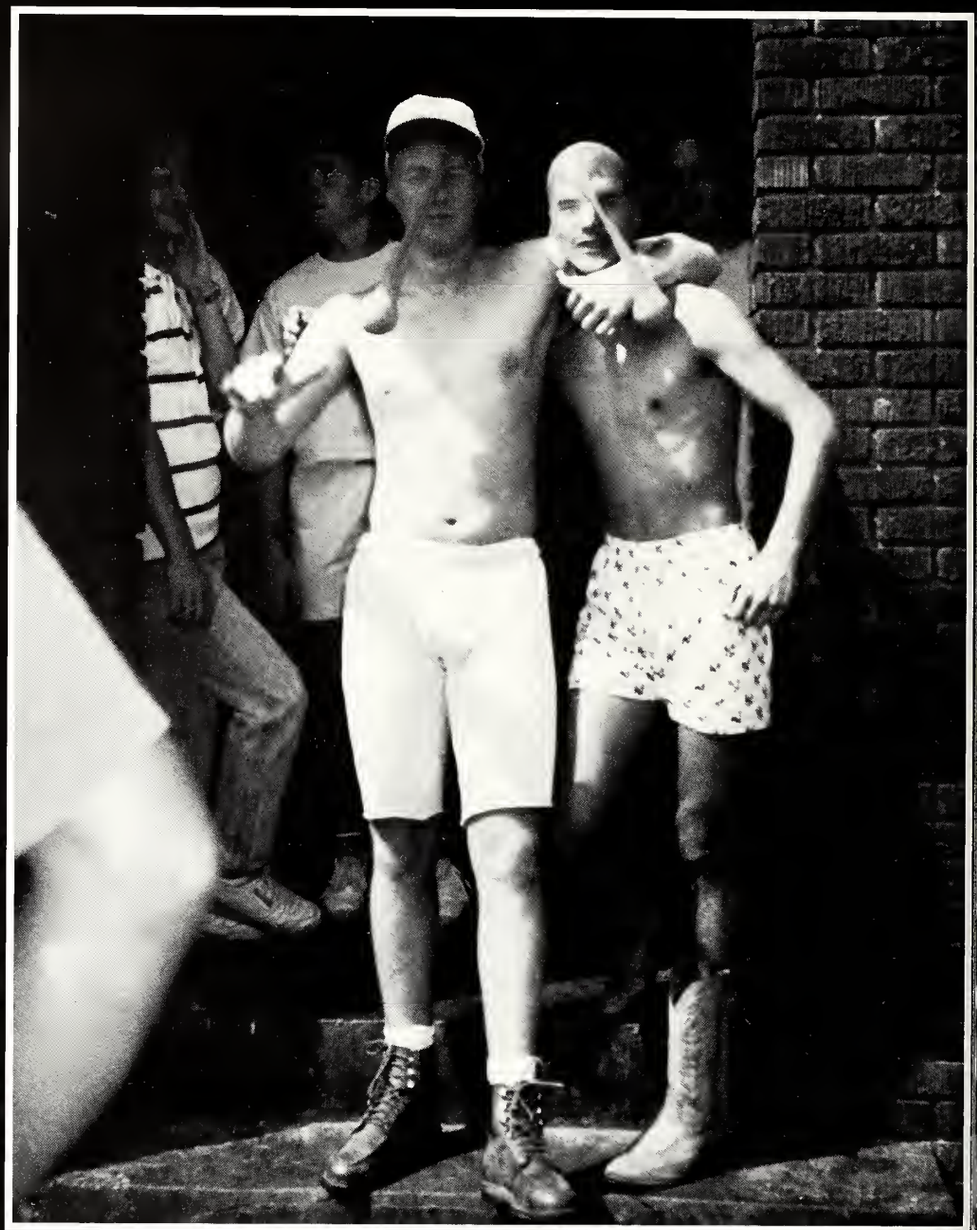
Clockwise From Bottom Right: Amanda McCutchen knows what it means to live out of a car. The parking ticket has become a familiar sight on the windshields of many commuter students at Lambuth. Rhonda Cash heads home after another day of classes.



Stupid Human Tricks

"These farcical situations . . . I'm always tied up in them. I suppose to most people I'm probably seen as an amiable idiot . . . a genial twit."

— Keith Moon



Clockwise From Right: Russ Ellis and Lance Nace attempt to pass as the Masked Marauders. Leanne Casey, Kim Daniel, and Amanda Brint have a meeting of the minds. Brian Moore seems to have gone through a drastic transformation. Amy Barone and Susie Simpkins do their imitation of Chip and Dale. Missy Allensworth pedals her way to happiness. Karen Miller plays Catwoman.

Night Life

"After midnight we're gonna let it all hang down . . . gonna cause talk and suspicion, we gonna give an exhibition, we gonna find out what it is all about."
— Eric Clapton

As the moon rises high into the sky, Lambuth students switch gears. Students need a stress-release after a day of diligently poring over the books. No matter what they choose to do, Lambuth students find that the night brings some form of entertainment. Whether they go to a movie, a restaurant, a frat party, or a dance, Lambuth students go out when the sun goes down.

Clockwise From Right: Melany Woodard, Freddy Thurman, Wesley Williams, and Stephanie Miller take in social life at the Sig·Ep house. Leanne Casey and Julie Daurer warm up at an autumn bonfire. The Kappa Sig chapter house is always a hot night-spot for fun-loving girls such as Janna Sipes, Tracy Miller, Denise Lippy, and Joanie Tubb. Roy Garcia and Ken Kercheval attempt to improve their skills in either karate or dancing. Epic's is a late-night hangout for many Lambuth students. Kyle Atkins and Jeff Koldkowski always enjoy Lambuth's night life.

Rock & Roll

"I know it's only Rock and Roll, but I like it."

— The Rolling Stones

The Rolling Stones, the Beatles, and the Grateful Dead would all seem to be musical forces of a bygone era, but not so! In 1989, the Stones entered the charts at number one — the same position they held many times during the '60's and '70's. Although George, Paul, and Ringo are solo now, they are still in the record stores and now on MTV. The Grateful Dead, who haven't stopped rocking and touring for over twenty years, released yet another new album in 1989.

The influence of these bands is certainly going strong. Many Lambuth students loaded up and made the trek to St. Louis to see the legendary Stones live on September 17. Bumper stickers depicting dancing bears and skeletons and roses announce that the Dead are alive at Lambuth. Listening to the musical sounds of Lambuth is evidence enough that the music of a "bygone era" will be rocking us into the 1990's.

On the Quad

Clockwise From Above: Andy Ash takes a study break on the quad. Brian Sisk tells it like it is to Tarsha Summers and Stephanie Collins. The infamous 1:20 gathering begins. This group debates whether or not to brave the cafeteria line. The beautiful weather draws Cord Miller and Allison Marshall out to the quad to study and talk.

Lambuth College is fortunate to have a group of men committed to class attendance and personal grooming. Every day this elite, quality control group converges on the steps of Spangler Hall to monitor the fashions, faces, and follies of the parade to 1:20 classes. Rumors abound concerning these men. The subjects of their evaluation believe that these men are looking for dates and gossip. A noted Lambuth faculty member, on the other hand, believes that these men are only attempting "a primitive method of male bonding." Whatever the reason for their existence, their contribution to the Lambuth campus life is immeasurable.

"The history of the be-in is interesting. It was 'Let's go out . . . and be with each other'."

— Ritchie Havens

Miss Lambuth

"One Moment in Time"

Jane Ellen Wilson, a senior from White House, Tennessee, was named Miss Lambuth 1989 on February 25th. The theme of this year's pageant, "One Moment in Time," was sung by Jack Seabury. Additional entertainment was provided by the Kaleidoscope men, the Vicki Dennison dancers, and Miss Lambuth 1988, Jenny Harrison. FeLoy Gibbs served as Master of Ceremonies.

The twelve contestants competed in four categories: interview, evening gown, talent and swimsuit. The judges named Lalania Goodman first runner-up, Maria Bel second runner-up, Apri Smith third runner-up, and Amy Hopper fourth runner up. Jane Ellen, the Queen proudly represented Lambuth in the Miss Tennes see Pageant in July, where she was selected as a top ten finalist.

All-Sing

Sponsored by the Interfraternal and Panhellenic Councils, All-Sing 1989 once again proved to provide excellent entertainment for Lambuth students and faculty alike. Proceeds from this annual event went to the Women's Resource and Rape Assistance Program. Greek organizations showcased in this musical extravaganza included Alpha Omicron Pi, Phi Mu, Sigma Kappa, Alpha Kappa Alpha, Kappa Alpha, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Kappa Sigma. Entertainment was provided during the intermission by Dr. Gene Davenport.

Awards were given for the top three performances. Alpha Omicron Pi received a crowd-pleasing first place with a rendition of "A Tribute to Elvis." Second place was awarded to Phi Mu for a performance highlighting "Memories" from All-Sing 1988. Finally, the newest Greek group at Lambuth College, Alpha Kappa Alpha, received a solid third place with an up-beat medley of "Hits From the Sixties."

Organizational and individual awards of academic excellence were presented. The Panhellenic Scholarship Award went to Phi Mu, who has received the award eight of the past nine years. The Interfraternity Scholarship Award went to Sigma Phi Epsilon for the seventh straight year. Bill Morgan of Sigma Phi Epsilon received the Oxley-Whetstone Scholarship Award as well as the Frederick E. Musser, Jr. Outstanding Greek Man Award. Finally, the Phi Mu Alumnae Outstanding Greek Woman Award went to Jane Ellen Wilson.

Clockwise: The KA's melt the hearts of many as they display that Southern gentlemanliness; the AKA's want everyone to "Stop! in the Name of Love"; the Kappa Sig's reveal their true virtues with their rendition of "Kappa Sig Tradition"; The Phi Mu's demonstrate musical talent; The Sigma Kappa's love Saturday mornings; The AOPi's take a walk down lonely street to "Heartbreak Hotel"; Bill Morgan leads the Sig Ep's in the famous Sesame Street song "Ma Na Ma Nap."

Graduation

Presenting the Class of 1989

April 30, 1989, marked the completion of yet another phase in the life of the members of Lambuth's one hundred forty-first graduating class. Dr. Charles Wilson, the Commencement speaker, admonished the graduating seniors to remember that "there are no bargains at the window of success. You must pay the full price ... in advance." The graduating class listened intently while Dr. Walter Mischke, Jr. presented the Baccalaureate sermon, which he based on I Corinthians 13:13: "And now abideth these three: faith, hope, and charity, and the greatest of these is charity." Some had tears in their eyes; others had hope in their hearts; and they all had the promise of the future.

Orientation

After unloading all of their worldly possessions onto the beds in their new rooms, nearly two hundred freshmen at Lambuth were hurled into the madness known as "freshman orientation." On August 19, new students and their parents arrived at Lambuth for a fully planned day of information and planning sessions, all designed to help acquaint everyone with the school. The first activity planned for the students was a test. While their children agonized over their first college exam, parents met with faculty advisors to discuss concerns and to learn about the overwhelmingly different situations with which freshmen must cope. During the afternoon, the students met with advisors to plan class schedules for Sunday's registration. An exciting party, called Playfair, was held after supper. The main purpose of this event was to help "break the ice" among the students, both freshmen and their peer advisors. After the worship service Sunday, the chaos of registration began. When it was all over, most of the freshmen ended with completely different schedules from the ones they had prepared the day before. That night, the freshmen joined the upperclassmen (who had been moving into the dorms all day) in the Lambuth Theatre to see "Who Framed Roger Rabbit."

To usher in the new scho year and orient the freshm to the true spirit of colle life, Lambuth studen "jammed out" at the back-school "Hawaiian Bash" Monday night. Decked out straw hats and colorful le returning students got re quainted with each oth freshmen made a host of n friends; and in the proce everyone had a great time.

Opening Convocation

As seasons come and seasons go, so too comes another Lambuth College school year, and with its arrival comes hundreds of Lambuth students full of aspirations for the upcoming year.

Opening Convocation at Lambuth is a time-honored tradition. The ceremony is held in high esteem by the entire Lambuth community. Professors, adorned in their robes, stand as a testimonial of the quest and fulfillment of excellence sought after by all Lambuth students.

Following the grandeur of speeches and processions, students, alumni, faculty, and administration unite around the flagpole in the center of campus. With the alma mater being sung in the background, the Lambuth body looks toward the sky as "Ole Glory" rises to the heavens, symbolically opening a brand-new school year at Lambuth College.

Homecoming 1989

Homecoming was a truly memorable week in the 1989-90 school year. The campus celebrated with many events, including a 5K run, a bonfire, a pep rally and, of course, a Homecoming dance. Alumni played an important role in the activities by presenting a Band and Choir Alumni Musical at the post-game picnic. The alumni held a golf tournament and a reception to honor the late Professor Barney Thompson, Chair of the Department of Music from 1945 through 1964. The most exciting Homecoming Event, however, was the Lambuth victory over Campbellsville College. During Homecoming '89, Eagle spirit soared and filled students and alumni alike with an appreciation of the Lambuth experience.

Brighton Beach Memoir

Brighton Beach Memoirs, Neil Simon's story of a young Jewish boy's adoleseent years, was presented by the Lambuth Theatre in February 1989. The play was direeted by William Morgan as a part of the requirements for his degree from Lambuth. The play, set in the Jerome family's home in Brooklyn, New York, depicts the turbulenee of growing up in an extended family. Eugene keeps a diary of the words and aetions of his family members, ineluding his aunt and her two daughters, his brother and his parents. The aetion presented to the audienee is his retelling of th events of his life.

Cast members were Br Lammers as Eugene, Jar Boyd as Blanche, Amy R as Kate, Katherine Marsh Laurie, Suzanna Cropf Nora, Gary Wake as Stanl and Brian Espey as Jaek.

"Guys and Dolls" and "The Importance of Being Earnest"

The theatrical production in the spring of 1989 was The Importance of Being Earnest, Oscar Wilde's nineteenth century comedy of manners, directed by Professor Jesse Byrum. Set in both the city and the countryside of England, this play is a satirical look at the mannerisms and proprieties of the day. Main characters were Jack Seabury as Earnest John Worthing, Brent Lammers as Algernon Moncrieff, Christie Garrett as Lady Bracknell, Wendy Griffin as Miss Cecily Cardew, and Deborah Weaver as Miss Gwendolen Fairfax.

The 1989-1990 theatre season opened with the acclaimed musical comedy Guys and Dolls. The play deals with the attempts of a young woman to convert the underworld characters of New York to the Christian faith. It is also a love story, chronicling the romances of a nightclub singer and the gambler who is reluctant to marry her and Miss Sarah, the missionary girl who falls in lo with a gambler who is eve thing she despises in a ma Main cast members we Jack Seabury as Nathan D troit, Bob Brown as Sky M terson, Jamie Boyd as M Sarah Brown and Chris Garrett as Miss Adelade.

Who's Who

Twenty-five of Lambuth's finest students were named to Who's Who Among American Colleges and Universities on November 9, 1989. The students, recommended by a committee of faculty and students, were chosen on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and extracurricular activities. After a special convocation, the traditional luncheon was held in honor of the recipients and their parents.

Christmas Season

Beginning with the Madrigal Feaste and ending with the Candlelight Service, Christmas at Lambuth College is a celebration of the highest order. The Music and Art Departments initiate the festivities inviting the entire community to participate in a return to the Medieval Court and its jubilant merrymaking. Guests are served a traditional meal while being entertained by members of Kaleidoscope, the band, and the faculty. The Art Department continues the celebration by decorating the campus with wreaths and garlands of greenery and ribbon. Finally, the Concert Choir and the Campus Congregation present the Christmas Candlelight Service, a tradition begun at Cambridge University. The chapel is transformed into a pool of flickering light, as the Choir sings anthems and carols relating to the seven lessons of the seasons.

S.G.A. Committees

The heart of Lambuth College Student Government Association is the five standing committees. These S.G.A. standing committees provide opportunities for student involvement and represent student interests. The S.G.A. standing committees are the Student Activities Committee, Food Committee, Homecoming Committee, Miss Lambuth Committee, and the Spirit Committee.

Student Ambassadors

The Student Ambassadors of Lambuth College are students selected by the Admissions office to help in the recruitment of prospective students. The student Ambassadors plan Senior Weekend and Wednesdays at Lambuth. These preview events help introduce high school students to Lambuth, and the Ambassadors provide a personal touch in the handling of the students.

Peer Advisors

Peer Advisors serve a vital role in the process of introducing incoming freshmen to Lambuth College. The selected students help during orientation week, and they participate in freshman seminars throughout the fall semester. The Peer Advisors not only help the new students' faculty advisors, but they help the students themselves with any problems they may have.

Student Publications

The Vision, The Coffeehouse Papers and The Lantern

Lambuth has three student publications that encourage literary and journalistic creativity on campus. The Vision, Lambuth's student newspaper, is published monthly as a forum for student expression. Advised by Dr. Joy Austin and edited by Diane Brewer, The Vision staff does an excellent job of keeping Lambuth students aware of campus happenings.

The Coffeehouse Papers is a yearly publication of Lambuth's student and faculty literary and artistic works, including poetry, short stories, photography, drawings and graphic art. The staff works throughout the year to promote creative composition and sponsors a competition that awards artistic works with cash prizes. The publication is under the advisement of Mrs. Lendon Noe and Dr. Dalton Eddleman.

The Lantern, under the advisement of Dr. Bob Hazlewood and Editor Cheryl Bowers, makes every effort to portray through pictures the "Lambuth Experience." The Lantern staff was restructured this year, and for the first time, the students involved met as a class and earned three hours of academic credit. The section editors, copywriters, and photographers of The Lantern work together to produce a quality yearbook for Lambuth students.

Honor Societies

Affording Lambuth students the opportunity to be awarded for their academic endeavors, Lambuth College has three honor fraternities: Phi Alpha Theta, an international history honor society; Gamma Beta Phi, a service/leadership organization; and Omicron Phi Tau, a local honor society organized in 1930.

Membership into these organizations varies, yet all three promote the advancement of academics. Each organization is unique in its purpose. Phi Alpha Theta provides students who excel in history an opportunity to come together and discuss certain issues from the past that have had an impact on society and the world. Gamma Beta Phi, a service-oriented honor fraternity, which requires members to have a 3.25 grade point average after two semesters, sponsors service projects such as the blood drive and a Halloween carnival for underprivileged children. Omicron Phi Tau is a purely academic honor fraternity, whose purpose is to promote scholarship and to recognize those who have achieved a high degree of scholarship.

Art Clubs

Lambuth is fortunate to have three organizations on campus that encourage students involved in artistic endeavors. The Lambuth Student Art League fosters an interest in the visual arts through meetings, informational programs, and exhibits. The art group is led by Dr. Larry Ray, advisor, Brian Moore, president, Julia Stokes, vice-president, and Jennifer Stricker, secretary/treasurer.

The Fashion Group strives to cultivate professionalism and works to explore career opportunities. The group invited several career speakers throughout the year and attended "market" in Dallas. Advisor is Mrs. June Creasy. Student officers are Julianna Craft, president; Sharon Crumby, vice-president; and Missy Sadlac, secretary/treasurer.

The Lambuth College Student Chapter of the American Society of Interior Designers seeks to promote professionalism among students interested in interior design. The group enjoys hearing professionals speak at regularly scheduled meetings. Sponsoring show houses has become one of the group's most popular and most challenging activities. Officers of the Lambuth Student Chapter are president, Julia Daves and secretary/treasurer, Janet Meinert. Dr. Larry Ray serves as the advisor.

These three organizations are open to any Lambuth student with an interest in the visual arts, fashion merchandising, or interior design.

Theatrical Groups

Techies Only, Production Company and Loading Zone

Techies Only is a theatre group composed of students who are interested in the backstage aspects of theatre productions. These students work with the directors of plays presented at Lambuth to design and construct sets, to operate lights, and to keep each production running smoothly.

Under the direction of founding president Mr. Scott Delashmit, the Production Company videotapes newsworthy campus events such as plays, convocations, and special events. These tapes are made available to local television stations such as TRTV, WBBJ (Channel 7), and PBS affiliate Channel 16. In the future, the company hopes to add coverage of Lambuth sports events to its agenda.

The Lambuth Loading Zone is a touring theatre group which is available to perform short plays, skits, improvisational pieces, and reader's theatre productions for social, church, and scholastic functions.

Student National Education Associatio and Business Clu

The Student National Education Association is the first pre-professional organization that education majors may join. Participation in SNEA leads to automatic membership in the Tennessee Education Association and the National Education Association. The group meets regularly to discuss issues involving the education field.

The Business Club is open to any Lambuth student with a strong interest in business. The business club provides valuable information to its members, and also sponsors speakers from the business world. The club gives students insight into their chosen fields and other opportunities in business.

American Chemical Society
Sociology Club
Advocates Club

The American Chemical Society seeks to teach chemistry students about professional options and new developments in the field of chemistry. Members are required to maintain a 2.0 G.P.A. in chemistry classes.

The Sociology Club, which is open to any Lambuth student, contributes greatly to the campus by sponsoring an annual Sociological Symposium. At the symposium, student and professional papers are presented and a variety of speakers can be heard speaking on various social issues. The club also acts as a forum for student opinions and ideas regarding human society.

The Advocates Club, designed for students with an interest in political science, meets regularly to discuss subjects of a political nature. The group participates in the annual Model United Nations and helps in various campaigns. Voter registration is another emphasis of the Advocates Club.

International Students' Association

The International Students' Association is open to all foreign and American students who have an interest in the culture of other countries. The goal of the group is to promote understanding among the different cultures represented at Lambuth. The club holds regularly scheduled meetings, often with cultural speakers as guests. It also hosts the International Students' Banquet each spring. Dr. Alice-Catherine Carls is the faculty advisor of this organization.

Black Student Union

Since its founding in 1971, the Black Student Union has made great progress in promoting harmony among all races as well as creating a receptive environment for the intellectual and spiritual growth of black students at Lambuth College. The group not only provides fellowship and social events for the students, but it also introduces and displays various aspects of Afro-American culture and history to the campus. The group's main activities include the celebration of Black History Month and the Miss BSU Pageant. Dr. Brady Whitehead and Mrs. Sarah Twiggs are faculty advisors.

Concert Choir

The Lambuth College Concert Choir, under the direction of Ms. Marcia Mittelstadt, is a group of about sixty students who promote Lambuth and Christian faith through their music. They perform at various church services throughout the year, and they provide the music for many college functions as well. This year, the choir hosted a Choral Clinician, Tom Mills, in November. Mr. Mills worked with the Concert Choir and with several of Lambuth's voice students to improve their concentration and relaxation skills, thereby improving performances. The choir toured the Mid-South in February of 1990.

Kaleidoscope and Jazz Band

Kaleidoscope is a sixteen member singing group under the direction of Miss Marcia Mittelstadt. The group performs popular music with original choreography complementing each song for many campus functions, including Parents' Weekend, College for the Weekend, and Methodist Youth Day. These performances are often an enticement to high school students to come to Lambuth, and are, therefore, a valuable recruiting device. Kaleidoscope presents the annual Madrigal Feast in December, with all of the Old World charm of a Medieval Court's Christmas celebration intact.

In the spring, Kaleidoscope toured the Mid-South with the Jazz Band, which is directed by Richard Brown. The group performs "Big Band" and contemporary music for organizations both on and off campus. Admission to these groups is by special audition, and members receive an annual performance grant.

The 1989 Women's Tennis Team, under the direction of Coach Sherrie Smith, compiled a respectable 11-10 overall record. In the all-important TCAC, the team finished 9-8. It played its best tennis, however, in the post-season District 24 Tournament in Nashville where, out of fifteen teams, it finished in a tie for sixth place.

The Men's Tennis Team, under the direction of first-year coach Tom Hay, began the 1988 season with young talent and high aspirations of winning the District 24 Tournament. Although the team had a rocky start, it began to play to its potential as the tournament approached.

Through his timely play, number one seeded freshman, Chad Hebert, reached the quarterfinals, eventually losing to Belmont's number one seed.

1990 tennis

The 1990 Men's and Women's Tennis Teams promise to be highly competitive in the TCAC. Combining fresh recruits with experienced returnees, Coach Tom Hay is nothing but optimistic about both the men's and women's chances.

If fall practice is any indication of the type of season that the 1990 tennis teams will have this spring, then TCAC opponents had better watch out. Having been, at best, merely competitive in the TCAC in recent years, both the men's and women's teams look to "steal the show" this spring.

New men's players include: Oren Reedy, Jim Crunk, Magnus Orrod, and Chuck Blumenthal. New women's players are Amy Helton, Meg Forsyth, Amy Rice, Denise Lippy, and Tracy Gibson.

"I honestly believe that we will be competitive in the District 24 Tournament this spring."

— Chuck Blumenthal

GROWING season

The Lambuth College Eagles baseball team, under the guidance of first year coach Charles "Pepper" Bray, began the 1989-90 school year with talent unsurpassed in recent years. Composed of seven seasoned seniors, the squad looked to steal the District 24 Tournament with ease. When opening day popped-up on the Eagles, their bats were red hot and their pitching was no less impressive. Yet, as the season progressed, the Eagles had trouble combining their good defensive days with their good offensive days. Consequently, they finished the season with a 14-21 record.

Bright spots in the disappointing season were Senior second baseman Garen Thronberry and Sophomore catcher Mark Whitworth. Thronberry, a four-year starter for the Eagles, has been honored throughout his baseball career with such honors as All-Conference — SO,JR; All-District — JR,SR; Honorable Mention All-American — JR; and Most Valuable Player — JR,SR. Mark Whitworth, in his first starting year, led the Eagles in hitting, compiling a .364 batting average along with five homeruns.

"Last year can probably best be summed up by bad luck and untimely slumps. It seems like we couldn't put our offense and defense together on the same day. Our record certainly didn't reflect the amount of talent and potential this team had."

SETTING the tone

Setting the tone for the 1989-90 school year, the upstart Lambuth Eagles had a memorable and dominating year. Third-year head coach, Jim Hardegree, had his troops in the best condition of their lives. Senior Scott Akin from Selmer, Tennessee, reflected on the opening week of fall practice: "He's either gonna kill us or we're gonna be great." Undoubtedly, the physical conditioning of the Eagles before the season got underway played a vital role in their successful season . . .

"Being here the last four years, the biggest change I see in the program is our confidence. We don't just show up to play anymore. We go out every Saturday and see how bad we can beat our opponent."
— Bill Underhill

Losing only to perennial powers Rhodes College and Cumberland College, the Eagles rolled over their opponents with relative ease.

Behind the savvy and direction of Greg Cash, a Junior College transfer who passed for 1,849 yards for the year, connecting on 116 of 217 passes, the Eagle offensive averaged 336.3 total yards per game, 152.6 on the ground and 183.7 through the air. Defensively, the Eagles caused forty-five turnovers throughout the season. Junior free-safety Kevin Ward from Milan, Tennessee commented on this year's defense, "Our defensive team had a real unity. We seemed to all get along off the field as well as on the field. I credit a lot of my success this year to the defensive line and to Damon Bradford for helping me understand the defensive back position."

The Eagles' season reached its pinnacle, however, on December 9 in the first annual United Way Steamboat Classic held in Burlington, Iowa where they met the talented Tigers of Iowa Wesleyan. The game produced 1,095 yards total offense, saw eighty-eight pass attempts, and lasted three and one-half hours. On the opening kickoff, Senior Garen Throneberry, from Shelbyville, Tennessee, raced ninety yards for the score. Garen commented on the play, "The ball was kicked to the right hashmark. We had our return set up for the opposite side of the field though. I took off across the field and ran to daylight. The blocking was great."

The turning point of the game came on an Eric Kelly blocked punt, his second for the season, the first of which set up a victory at Millsaps College earlier in the season. Resulting in a third quarter safety, Kelly's blocked punt knotted the score at 28-28. On a day where the Eagle offense could do no wrong, Lambuth outscored the run-and-shoot Tigers, 55-41, capping off a banner 9-2 season, a season that has us all looking forward to next season.

SPIRITED group

Lambuth College Cheerleaders did a great job boosting school spirit this year at football and basketball games. The 1989 squad consisted of Vicki Feisal, Tammy Lee, April Smith, Kara Majors, Marie Tuttle, Tiffany Pingston, and Bonnie Cunliffe; Bill Walker served as the sponsor. At cheerleading camp, the squad received "superior" and "excellent" ribbons. The squad also received a second place trophy in cheers, a fourth place trophy in dance, and another fourth place trophy in sideline cheer. Denise Nicholson, in her third year as the Eagle mascot, won all superior and excellent ribbons. She also won the superior mascot trophy for the week.

EXCITING young team

The Lady Eagles entered the 1989-90 season without four of last year's starters, all of whom were lost to graduation. Coach Sherry Smith returned seven players, however, and added five new faces to her roster.

"The Lady Eagles have taken on a new look this year," says Coach Smith. "With the loss of five seniors, we have added several new faces to the team. I am very impressed with the dedication and positive attitude this team displays. This will be a rebuilding year for the Lady Eagles, however this team has the talent, enthusiasm, and desire to be successful. I am excited about the 1989-90 basketball season, and I personally feel we will be a very exciting team to watch."

The Lady Eagles, like the men's team, were hampered by injuries all season long. Losing senior Stephanie Williams for the season, the Lady Eagles were also without the services of center Candy Reed, forwards Chandra Dicus and Andrea Barnes, and guard Lawonder Siner at inadvertent times throughout the season.

After improving to seventh in the always tough TCAC last year and with eleven experienced players returning, the Eagles were very optimistic last spring. However, a series of unexpected mishaps over the summer cost the squad five key players. The bad luck has continued into the fall, with three starters going down with injuries. Despite these losses, the team was optimistic and excited about the 1989-90 season. Coach Russell returned seven lettermen and welcomed three newcomers to the Eagles. The squad consisted of four seniors, three juniors, one sophomore, and two freshmen. The captains of this year's team are seniors Dan Headrick and Brad Jones.

"This team has already faced a lot of adversity but, they are very determined and have handled it well so far," said Russell when asked to comment on his squad's performance in the pre-season.

"Workouts have been spirited and enthusiastic. Even though our biggest concern right now is a lack of depth, we feel that we have personnel who are capable of playing more of an up-tempo style this year. I believe that Lambuth fans will find this an exciting team to watch."

A highlight of the first half of the season was the Eagles' convincing victories at the Bi-Centennial Exchange Club Tournament held at Lane College November 27 and 28. Defeating Union University in the championship game, Lambuth proudly took home the first place trophy. The Eagles placed two players on the All-Tournament team: Brad Jones and John Reid.

FUN competition

Intramurals at Lambuth have always offered an outlet for those students who do not participate at the varsity level. A student-athlete, who plays varsity football for Lambuth, for example, is ineligible to participate in flag football for his particular dorm or fraternity. Such an individual is, however, eligible to participate in other sports on the intramural agenda. These sports include basketball, softball, volleyball, cross-country, golf, and flag football. For the women, softball, basketball, and volleyball are offered. Thus far this intramural season, the Kappa Sigmas have won flag football. In women's intramurals, Alpha Omicron Pi won softball and Phi Mu won volleyball.

the RUSH

In one week students make a decision that will last the rest of their lives. Rush is an activity in which the individual Greek organizations have to be successful, for it is the means of bringing in new members who are full of ideas and expectations that will continue the traditions of the particular organization.

This year, Fraternity Rush lasted from Sunday, August 28, 1989, until Friday, September 1, 1989. Each year, Fraternity Rush is characterized by an open house the first day, followed by nights of meeting and greeting, preference parties, and, ultimately, Bid Day, where Rushees turn in their invitations (bids) to join a particular fraternity. Bid Day culminates in a day of sports and revelry.

Sorority Rush followed on the heels of Fraternity Rush. Tuesday, September 5, 1989, the Rushees were treated to a "Rush Fashion Show" so that they would not be underdressed all week. The next two nights featured punch parties. Friday night was Theme Party night, where most sororities dramatized their past histories. Saturday was Preference Party Day, which included a dinner designed to help each girl decide which sorority was for her. The Cattle Run ended Sorority Rush, and was just as much fun as a spectator sport.

the PLEDGE PROGRAM

The Greek pledge program is designed to guide pledges through certain phases of their college careers. Pledges learn their national and chapter histories, parliamentary procedures, chapter unity, "people skills," and how to watch their grades. (A 2.0 grade point average must be achieved for initiation.)

Fund-raisers are important in promoting this personal and chapter development. The money from these fund-raisers may stay within the group to lower the pledge class initiation fee or it may go for philanthropic interests. Leaf rakes, "tuck-ins," car washes, "ghost notes," bake sales, and pledge auctions are just a few of the fund-raisers the pledge classes hold annually.

On the whole, pledging is a positive experience that strengthens the unity within each organization and helps fulfill the needs and emotions of a hectic college career.

the MANAGERS

The Inter-Fraternity and Panhellenic Councils act as the governing bodies of the Greek system. Both groups are responsible for organizing rush as well as acting as intermediaries between the Greek groups and the Student Life Office.

The I.F.C. represents the interests of each fraternity and mediates any problems arising at the fraternity houses. The Panhellenic Council promotes inter-action and unity between the different sororities. In the past years, both of these groups have proven to be effective in keeping Lambuth's Greek system running smoothly.

the SERVICE

The Greeks are not satisfied with merely finding friends and having a party. They have higher ideals as they work to better the community. With their manpower and idealism, the Greeks involve and incite their members to be socially responsible and help those in need.

The Alpha Omicron Pi sorority supports the interests of the National Arthritis Foundation. The Phi Mus help out at Youthtown in Jackson, with Project Hope, and with the Children's Miracle Network Telethon. The Sigma Kappas support the interests of Alzheimer's, Gerontology, the Maine Sea Coast Mission, and the Greek Farm School. The men of Kappa Alpha continue to support the Muscular Dystrophy Association, and the Kappa Sigma fraternity continues to support Habitat for Humanity and the March of Dimes. Sigma Phi Epsilon continues its support of the National Heart Foundation.

No one can claim that Greek organizations are just party clubs. Their charitable records speak for them.

the FLAGPOLE

An important Greek tradition here at Lambuth is the "flagpole," a tradition not found on other campuses. The flagpole is used mainly for group celebrations, such as Bid Day, candlelights, initiations, and as a precursor to social events and formals. The flagpole is used round the clock, with the sororities favoring daytime hours and the fraternities enjoying the night. Actually, the fraternities find it best to confine themselves to times after dark because the lyrics to their songs do not lend themselves to setting an academic environment. While the women sing of sisterhood and love, the men of Lambuth sing of partying and, at times, brotherhood. No matter what the group or what the song, the tradition of the "flagpole" remains an integral part of Greek life at Lambuth.

the PARTY

The Campus Party originates as either a frat house party or a simple gathering that moves from place to place. Gatherings are often spontaneous. With the right mood, music, and a couple of people, one can have a campus party. Common party games include Spades, Atari, Quarters, Thumper, Questions, and I Never. Pledge swaps are another outlet with themes such as "Come as your favorite dead person," "Woodstock artists," "Roman," or "Halloween creatures." All in all, these social outlets serve as study breaks and tension breakers; they normally begin about 10:00 p.m. nightly. It's all a matter of starting one.

the ROADTRIP

A roadtrip is defined as a venture embarked on by a group of at least two or more Greek students that seek to find those elusive answers to questions such as, "Where does the other sock go after you dry your clothes?" and "How many feet of yellow lines are in an interstate mile?" Although the answers to these questions may never be found, those brave troopers, who often dare to go where no sane man would be seen, relentlessly continue their journey until they run out of money or get tired. Outsiders may see these trips, to destinations unknown, as ludicrous or a waste of money, but the trained eye will notice a successful roadtrip and understand the importance that the journey lends to mankind's future.

the GREEK TRADITION

Greek Traditions at Lambuth College come in varied forms and fashions. The Greeks are proud of their brotherhood and sisterhood and they strive to uphold these ideas through repeating various passages of history which have evolved over their chapter's life span. Many of these traditions include paying dues, buying jerseys, participating in "Inspiration Weeks," and even cleaning fraternity houses and sorority rooms. Traditions also involve old spirits such as Kappa Alpha's ties to Robert E. Lee and their participation in Old South Week to the purpose of Alpha Kappa Alpha's enhancement of the significant, self-realizing processes that its members promote at Lambuth College. Tradition and ceremony are the basis of Greek Life. All Greeks actively participate in secret rituals known only to initiated members. They all constantly hold onto the values of the Greek tradition.

the FORMAL

Fraternity and Sorority Formals are social gatherings that play an integral part in strengthening the Greek system. Both fraternities and sororities participate in formal social activities throughout the semester. These formal activities are in many cases the highlight of the Greeks' year and include the following: AOPi — Rose Ball, Pledge Formal; Phi Mu — Carnation Ball, Christmas Dance; Sigma Kappa — Lavender and Lace, Christmas Formal; Kappa Alpha — Old South; Kappa Sigma — Black and White Formal; Sigma Phi Epsilon — Queen of Hearts.

President Boyd's Optimism Abounds

In the three years after his appointment to President, Dr. Thomas F. Boyd has guided Lambuth College out of a fiscal deficit into an era of a balanced budget. Lambuth now boasts a larger enrollment than it has seen in over a decade. At the very outset of his installation as President, Dr. Boyd stressed the fact that he planned to involve community, church, and alumni in the growth and development of Lambuth College. Dr. Boyd's commitment to the growth and development of Lambuth may be seen in his "White Paper Proposals," where he places an emphasis on the future of the college in the competitive field of education.

Dr. Boyd's optimism for the future of Lambuth College is reassuring. Commenting on the '89-'90 school year, Dr. Boyd stated, "I think without a doubt the size and quality of the student body are unsurpassed. This, in turn, is a barometer for the whole institution. When a student is in an institution that is growing, opportunities are increasing and there is a sense of optimism that everyone feels as a consequence of that."

President Boyd shares a light moment with Executive Committee members Rev. Al Evens, Rev. Walter Mischke, Mrs. Jeanne Varnell, Mr. Tommy Ross, and Mr. Tommy Hart.

Dean Upholds Academic Excellence

As Vice-President and Academic Dean of Lambuth College, Dr. Charles Mayo feels that Lambuth has reached a milestone in the field of academics. He is especially proud of the new core curriculum with its emphasis on writing. As part of the new core requirements, juniors and seniors are required to apply knowledge from their various disciplines to themes of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. As a result, Dr. Mayo feels that Lambuth will be more "accountable" in the future for students not only during their stay at Lambuth but also after they have graduated. When students look back upon their years at Lambuth College, Dr. Mayo hopes that they will be proud of the diploma which they received.

Dr. Mayo also sees Lambuth's academic fields enriched through the involvement of the trustees. This year trustees visited the campus and became involved in the academic program by attending classes and by taking part in the typical day of a Lambuth student. When asked what he, as Dean, wanted the 89-90 school year to be remembered for, Dr. Mayo succinctly replied, "academic excellence."

Dean Mayo is apparently pleased with his new role as grandfather.

Cafeteria Staff

The Cafeteria Staff was under new management this year. The food service director is James Smith, of Valley Management Services; he is assisted by Tammy Ferguson, the cafeteria supervisor. In the early weeks of the semester, management expanded the cafeteria menus to include many different kinds of cuisine, and discovered that Mexican, Italian, and American dishes were the most popular menu items. The dining room was opened up to give a more comfortable, aesthetic experience for students eating in the hall. Mr. Smith hopes that the food service will become more pleasing and acceptable to all students, as he continues to work with the students to achieve this goal.

Maintenance Staff

Lambuth's maintenance and housekeeping staff is a vital part of the campus. Its job is to keep things running smoothly all over the campus. Director James Briley oversees all work, which is divided into four parts: housekeeping, custodial work, groundskeeping, and mechanical work. These duties are divided among the twenty-two persons on the maintenance staff.

General housekeeping chores, mainly keeping the dormitories clean and livable, are attended to by the maids. The mechanics see that such things as the heating and air-conditioning systems, the plumbing, and the electrical wiring are kept in working order. Maintenance of the landscaping on the campus, including both the campus proper and the various athletic fields, is the duty of the groundskeeping staff. The custodial staff sets up for all special events: banquets, speakers, convocations, pageants, and special entertainment. It also attends to tasks such as emptying the dust bins, changing light bulbs, and general sweeping and vacuuming of the various buildings. The entire staff must always be alert to emergencies, which they are trained to meet with confident, correct action at any time.

Serving Academic Needs

The Luther L. Gobbel Library 1989-90 continued to serve its ientele of students, faculty, lethodist ministers, Jackson area gh school students and members the community. With a permaent collection of over 185,000 ems, the library is one of the largst in this area. However, books re not the only materials to be ound in the library. Also to be ound in the library are records, assettes, video films, kits, pamhlets, microfilm, microfiche, peodicals, and government documents. The U.S. Government Documents Depository proved to be a real problem in the fall. When the documents librarian, Mrs. Elaine Alexander, left Lambuth after eleven years of service, she was not replaced until the administration was convinced by pleas from students, faculty, and members of the community that the loss of the use of this collection was detrimental to the success of the academic program. Finally, at the end of the fall semester, a part-time documents librarian was employed.

The permanent staff of six librarians and administrative assistants was ably assisted by a student staff of twenty-one. The adult staff rewarded these students for their willingness to work unusual hours by treating them to the traditional non-cafeteria dinner at Christmas and graduation.

Students continued to find the library a quiet place when they needed to study.

Doing What They Do Best

Of course, "class" is what Lambuth College is all about, and our excellent faculty makes learning fun and easy. The word "easy" is debatable, but each faculty member gives every student special attention. The consideration given by each professor to the students is one of the most important elements of a Lambuth education.

Sharing the Lambuth Experience

Lambuth College has for decades placed emphasis on academic excellence. Yet, college life does not consist solely of preparing for exams and writing essays. Students and faculty sharing moments out of class is a common sight at Lambuth and is only one reason why the "Lambuth Experience" remains special.

Going Beyond the Classroom

Part of Lambuth's uniqueness is found in the personal interaction of student and professor. Here the student is more than a mere number to the professor. Because of the relatively low ratio of student to teacher, the professors have more time to interact with their students by extending help and advice on an individual basis. Students are encouraged to go to the professor whenever clarification of an idea or an assignment is needed. Seldom is a student discouraged or turned away in a time of need by his professor.

LAMBUTH COLLEGE
JACKSON, TENNESSEE
Whatsoever things are true...
Phil 4:8
1843

Senior Class Officers: President Jennifer Lovelace, Vice-President Jamie Boyd, Treasurer Jung Song.

By the senior year, students have been in school for seventeen solid years. Sounds un believable, doesn't it? The school setting made choices easy. The most difficult choices mad were what classes to take and who to live with. But after turning the tassel, what next?

This is the question that is persistent on the mind of every senior. A poem by Amand Bradley sums up what most seniors feel while searching for the answer:

"We all have our own separate pathway to take, our own destinations to choose. We all hav our own contributions to make, our own special talents to use. We all have our own kind of lif to pursue, our own kind of dream to be weaving . . . And we all have the power to make wishe come true, as long as we keep on believing."

The junior year is a continuation of the sophomore year in that students are still involved in creating an identity for themselves. Although they are working to meet academic requirements, juniors face great personal demands. These demands may coalesce during the semester in which the student takes Junior Seminar, the unifying course required of all third year students. Junior Seminar often intensifies the individual student's search for firm values. The ethical questions raised in the class discussion sessions often cause moral confusion in the most steadfast of students. However, this confusion is relatively ephemeral, because, by the end of the course, most students have determined those values by which they will live.

For most people, the sophomore year is the easiest one in their college careers. Having passed through the fire in their freshman year, students can relax more, and enjoy the freedom of college life. The sophomore year is a transition year, the year in which most students truly mature. Although they still have to study, they have more time to devote to extracurricular activities. Sophomores generally take off-campus jobs, decide their majors, and take greater responsibility for their actions.

In the sophomore year many students take their elective classes; they study those subjects in which they are really interested, and their grades reflect this interest. After completing their sophomore year, students usually have a greater awareness of who they are and what they want to do. They have forged an identity for themselves which they will refine in their remaining college years.

The most difficult task in the world is to survive the freshman year of college. One learns in the freshman year that he is not nearly so smart as he thinks he is and that he really was not prepared in high school for the rigors of college life.

The freshman year of college is an humbling one. As early as registration, the freshman learns that no matter how high he was on the social or academic scale of his high school, he must start again at the bottom and work his way up. He must learn to cope with unfamiliar surroundings, roommates and suitemates, and cafeteria food. Above all, the freshman must learn to take care of himself; he must begin the journey of life, making mistakes — both great and small — as he matures.

In Memory Of

In his twenty-four years at Lambuth College, Dean Whybrew served with intelligence, faith, dignity, and compassion. His patience and his understanding were characteristics which made him a man of wisdom and of grace in times of trouble and tension. For those of us fortunate to have known him, there was never any doubt that his loyalty was to Lambuth College and to the purpose for which the College stands.

— Dean Charles W. Mayo

Mrs. Huguette P. Craft

During her twenty-seven years at Lambuth College, Mrs. Craft was a strong advocate for the study of different languages and cultures. She was also dedicated to international education and was for many years the Chairperson of the International Education Committee. Mrs. Craft's professional attitude, her concern for students, and her contributions to Lambuth College, to her church, and to the Jackson community will be missed by everyone.
